Dear Sir:

Your kind letter of May 28th is indeed interesting. I knew that Payne's real name was Powell and that his father had come to Washington just previous to the son's execution. The attorney for the son mentions this in his plea to the court. I had the impression that there were other sons and often wondered what became of them.

We enjoy receiving letters like yours which indicate an interest in the Dearborn Independent on the part of our readers. Thank you sincerely for writing us.

Very truly yours
