Dear Mr Black,

There went to you this morning a copy of the Booth book with my compliments — and an inscription which I hope you will like. I was surprized that the publisher had not already sent you one of the books. Publishers have a way of overlooking such courtesies.

As you will find, I took full advantage of your research work, & have not failed to credit you in the matter. Let me repeat I am deeply grateful to you.

Dr Houghton has just left for New York after a visit here to mutual friends.

Command me if I can be of any service to you.

Yours sincerely,

Francis Wilson

Am writing publisher to forward your material, (in New York) I have a list of all you sent, so if anything is looking, I will be duly forthcoming.
