Dear Sir:

We understand that Jos. Zisgen, one of the company who captured John Wilkes Booth lived at your home a great many years and died there January 8, 1914.

It has been stated that Zisgen claimed the man captured in the Garrett barn was not Booth. All our information indicates that the man was Lincoln's assassin. Since we have printed a series of articles on the question we were rather interested in any statement about it. Can anyone there give us any information as to Zisgen's claims? Was his story ever ~~made~~ written up in the newspapers? Did he give any interviews dealing with it?

Very truly yours
