

DR. J. G. ARMSTRONG.

tention to devote his evening to his lecture on Hamlet which he had expected to make his masterpiece.

It was Dr. Armstrong's habit to work late, most of his writing being done at night. At midnight Mrs. Armstrong missed him, but thought nothing of his absence, as he frequently wrote later than that. At 3 o'clock she awoke again, and, a little alarmed, went up to the doctor's library to see what kept him so late. As she entered she saw him lying on his lounge, one hand thrown back under his head, apparently sleeping peacefully. Her attempts to arouse him were unavailing, and she saw, then, that he was unconscious.

Hastily rousing the household, she sent for Dr. Orme, the family physician, who came quickly. An examination showed that the cause of the trouble was apoplexy, and that there was little, if any, hope. All the limbs were paralyzed, and all efforts to rouse the stricken man to consciousness were unavail-

3rd Article

yesterday and ten
It is probable that Cœur will have charge of the fu
The place of interment termined upon, but the h rest in one of the Atlan Armstrong had frequently Atlanta more than any world, and it was his wish here.

BURGLARS C

Julius Bone and Jim Ta Bars.

Detectives Bedford and piece of work yesterday.
They arrested Julius Bon Tanner, a negro, and a stands against them on the Last Friday night Alex store, on Broad street, was b The burglars entered by through the roof, breaking a slipping a bar back from the A large quantity of knives how many the house has not Detectives Bedford and Gr the case. They spotted youn ner, who had a lot of ne which they were selling for They were arrested on De terday afternoon, and som knives recovered. A fine c also taken from them. Th ments rolled up and conceale coats.
Bone has been out of the short while, and Tanner is a

THE MISSING VE

He Turns Up in Palmetto,
No Account of Hi

P. M. McElroy, the old conf whose mysterious disappearan in THE CONSTITUTION severa been found.
He was located in Palmett father. He "turned up" there a emotionless as he disappeared fr Campbell county.
Mr. McElroy's mind is in condition.

2nd Article