Dear Mr Grant:

I am interested indeed in your letter of April 21st telling about your experiences at the Bates-Booth show. I have just received from another Chicago resident a couple pictures of the front of the exhibit with all the posters shown. They are a welcome addition and I was quite surprised to learn that they advertised David Herold as the man killed in the barn instead of Booth. In the Bates story, he claims it was a Roby or Ruddy.

With best wishes and many thanks, we are

Very truly yours
