Dear Mr. Eisenschiml:

The last information I had from Mr. Ford's office was that the original affidavits obtained by me from Granberry and Glen Rose Mills were still lost. I know they haven't been destroyed and must be somewhere in their files.

I am quite sure that I have typewritten copies among my Booth material. This is stored in Detroit and I cant figure any way to reach it unless I get back there myself. There is some chance that I may return for a few days this Fall and I shall be glad to pick it out for you.

I cant remember how much I used of it in a series of articles. You see, I haven't been actively interested in this question for about seven or eight years now.

Sincerely yours,

JB
