Said J.W.B. George had a very fine pair of shoes which were stolen

"Booth had been in Enid about a week before killing selz"

Laura Ida Booth - when assured of no estate - dropped matter.

Sold business in 1913 Dec 28 - 212 W Randolph to Geo. E. Walroth - who he thinks still owns it. Trunk in which there was nothing more than George's work clothes was kept piled on top of some thing at back of store - Arnold line Conebed affair - No MSS. in it he is sure.

Penniman says there was an old man in Cynthiana Ky. who claimed he knew all about J (Booth) & his son but swore the son not to tell story until after death - P could not give name - said son was undertaker

Geo F Smith, Decorah Ia wired George $25.00 a few days before death - P wired Smith who came - about 40 yrs old small man with brown mustache - nicely dressed polished - Pretended to be a merchant dealing in mens goods - (Booth put in mens goods in El Reno) Smith claimed he knew him well. Bates thinks Ills may have been B. B. Northrop is trying to get picture for P. to identify

Disappeared after P told him body was Booth -

P knows nothing re letter addressed to Bates by George
